Draft Resolutions

Nowadays, Resolutions are the direct result of informal consultations and negotiations.

- A Draft Resolution can be written by a single country or a group of countries with interests alike. They are called Sponsors.
- The main objective of each committee relies in the adoption of a single document, approved by the majority of the Member States.
- In the case of the General Assembly (GA), a Draft Resolution approved in one of its 6 main committees must then be analyzed and put to the vote in the GA Plenary Session for its adoption as a Resolution.

Before its formal adoption, there are two main practices used by the Sponsors for consulting other Member States on a Draft Resolution:

- Negotiations before tabling the Draft Resolution to the Bureau (Dais).
- Negotiations after tabling the Draft Resolution to the Bureau (Dais).

Consulting and negotiating with other Member States ensures the approval of a Draft Resolution.

Draft Resolutions

Negotiations before tabling the Draft Resolution to the Bureau (Dais):

The main Sponsor (country) consults with other Member States and holds informal negotiations on the Draft Resolution to obtain the “best version possible” to table it to the Dais. This allows immediate action following the formal presentation of an “L” document (component of the United Nations Document Symbols used for Draft Resolutions, it means “Limited distribution”). This is the normal practice in the GA Plenary. For NYMUNLAC, Draft Resolutions will be classified as “PR” documents for Spanish committees and “DR” documents for English committees.

Negotiations after tabling the Draft Resolution to the Bureau (Dais): The main Sponsor (country) presents the Draft Resolution, “DR” document, without prior consultation with other Member States. After this procedure, informal negotiations among the countries take place, led by either the main Sponsor or by a facilitator designated by the Chair of the committee.

If consensus is achieved, the negotiated document will replace its predecessor. This takes place under two possible methods:

- The Sponsor withdraws the original “DR” document, and a new “DR” document is presented following its classification by the Dais of the committee.
- The Sponsor presents the negotiated document as a revision of the original “DR” document (classified as DR.xx/Rev.1).

*In both cases, the resulting document is submitted to a vote, expecting to be adopted by consensus.

Draft Resolutions

- If the negotiations do not result in consensus, the Sponsor can either request further action in the original “DR” document or in the negotiated “DR.xx/Rev.1”. In both cases the Draft Resolution is submitted to a vote, usually accompanied by amendment proposals and requests to vote by paragraph (Division of the Question).
- Drafting Resolutions and negotiation are closely related because normally the selection of the words that are used to describe an action that is to be taken on a particular item on the Agenda of the committee is included as part of the negotiation process.

Draft Resolutions

- Structure of Document Symbol:
NYMUNLAC2019: Model United Nations acronym.
GA1: First Committee of the General Assembly
DR: Draft Resolution
02: Topic number in the committee's agenda (in this sample the committee is the First Committee of the General Assembly).
04: The number given by the Bureau (Dias) after approving the Draft Resolution (it would be numbered 04 if it was the fourth approved document on that topic).
Rev.1: Revised version with amendment (s).
- Member States sponsoring or signing the Draft Resolution must be enlisted.
- The topic discussed in the committee should be numbered and in bolds.

Draft Resolutions

Structure of a Draft Resolution and often used clauses:

1. Each Draft Resolution consists of one long single sentence. It begins with the name of the main organ that is adopting it. For example: “The General Assembly” or “The Economic and Social Council”. This is the first element of a Draft Resolution.

Resolution adopted by the General Assembly on 17 September 2012

*[on the report of the Special Political and Decolonization Committee
(Fourth Committee) (A/66/428/Add.1)]*

66/297. Comprehensive review of the whole question of peacekeeping operations in all their aspects

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 2006 (XIX) of 18 February 1965 and all other relevant resolutions,

Recalling in particular its resolution 65/310 of 19 July 2011,

Affirming that the efforts of the United Nations in the peaceful settlement of disputes, including through its peacekeeping operations, are indispensable,

Convinced of the need for the United Nations to continue to improve its capabilities in the field of peacekeeping and to enhance the effective and efficient deployment of its peacekeeping operations,

Considering the contribution that all States Members of the United Nations make to peacekeeping,

Noting the widespread interest in contributing to the work of the Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations expressed by Member States, in particular troop- and police-contributing countries,

Bearing in mind the continuous necessity of preserving the efficiency and strengthening the effectiveness of the work of the Special Committee,

1. Welcomes the report of the Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations;¹

2. Endorses the proposals, recommendations and conclusions of the Special Committee, contained in paragraphs 16 to 289 of its report;

3. Urges Member States, the Secretariat and relevant organs of the United Nations to take all steps necessary to implement the proposals, recommendations and conclusions of the Special Committee;

¹ Official Records of the General Assembly, Sixty-sixth Session, Supplement No. 19 (A/66/19).

Draft Resolutions

Structure of a Draft Resolution and often used clauses:

2. The name of the main organ is then followed by several preambular paragraphs (the second element of a Draft Resolution). These are not really paragraphs, but clauses in a long single sentence that is the Draft Resolution. The clauses start with a verb ending in -ing (e.g., “Recalling”, “Taking in consideration”, etc.), they are capitalized and written in italics. The preambular paragraphs end with a comma (,). They serve to present the background to the action part (operative paragraphs) of the Draft Resolution. They are also used to build an argument and obtain support.

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 2006 (XIX) of 18 February 1965 and all other relevant resolutions,

Recalling in particular its resolution 65/310 of 19 July 2011,

Draft Resolutions

Structure of a Draft Resolution and often used clauses:

3. The operative part has numbered paragraphs, unless there is only one. They begin with verbs in present tense, also capitalized, and finish with semi-colon (;) except for the last paragraph, which has a period (.) at the end of it.

The operative paragraphs state the actions that the organ, committee, commission, specialized organism or conference has decided to take. Precise clear language enhances political impact and facilitates implementation. Brief paragraphs are preferable, as they are politically much more powerful.

1. Welcomes the report of the Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations;¹
2. Endorses the proposals, recommendations and conclusions of the Special Committee, contained in paragraphs 16 to 289 of its report;
3. Urges Member States, the Secretariat and relevant organs of the United Nations to take all steps necessary to implement the proposals, recommendations and conclusions of the Special Committee;
4. Reiterates that those Member States that become personnel contributors to the United Nations peacekeeping operations in years to come or participate in the future in the Special Committee for three consecutive years as observers shall, upon request in writing to the Chair of the Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations, become members at the following session of the Special Committee;
5. Decides that the Special Committee, in accordance with its mandate, shall continue its efforts for a comprehensive review of the whole question of peacekeeping operations in all their aspects and shall review the implementation of its previous proposals and consider any new proposals so as to enhance the capacity of the United Nations to fulfil its responsibilities in this field;
6. Requests the Special Committee to submit a report on its work to the General Assembly at its sixty-seventh session;
7. Decides to include in the draft agenda of its sixty-seventh session the item entitled "Comprehensive review of the whole question of peacekeeping operations in all their aspects".

Draft Resolutions

Structure of a Draft Resolution and tips on ordering paragraphs in the preambular section:

1. If any of the preambular paragraphs refers to the Charter of the United Nations, it should go to the beginning. The full name of the document must be written the first time it is mentioned.

"The General Assembly,

Recalling Article 2, paragraph 1, and Articles 17, 18, 97 and 100 of the Charter of the United Nations, "

2. References to previous Resolutions usually come in second place:

"Also recalling its resolutions 41/213 of 19 December 1986, 42/211 of 21 December 1987, 52/12 B, of 19 December 1997, ..."

3. Next, it is proper to include general observations about the content and/or purpose of the resolution that will serve as basis for the rest of the text.
4. Finally, it is considered desirable to include a reference to a report on this topic, this will go last. It is not proper to include the classification or "symbol" of the document in the text, it would go in a footnote.

"Having examined the Report of the Secretary-General entitled "Shifting the management paradigm in the United Nations: ensuring a better future for all³,"

Preambular clauses

Operative clauses

Before tabling a Draft Resolution to the Bureau (Dais), you must ensure that:

- Your Delegation agrees that the Draft is ready to be submitted to the Bureau (Dais) and to be classified.
- That your Draft Resolution is supported by other Delegations. Be aware of the Draft's possibilities to be approved before it is tabled.
- The delegations you want to co-sponsor the Draft Resolution have been consulted throughout, that they are happy with the final text and are willing to co-sponsor it.
- The wording is correct and the terminology used is accurate. This relates both to its content and how it is expressed.
- Your Draft Resolution has been submitted to the Bureau (MUN Secretariat) ahead of time so the document is duly shared with the rest of the Delegations before it is introduced on the floor (committee).
